

J.B.ASHER

Full Stack Developer

ABOUT ME

I am an enthusiastic undergraduate student with a strong passion for backend development and system-level technologies. I enjoy solving real-world problems through clean, efficient, and secure code.

I have experience working as both a team leader and active contributor in academic and personal projects, following structured approaches like MVC architecture. I am a continuous learner who constantly explores new tools and technologies to enhance my skills and stay updated with the latest industry trends.
